DISCOVER AN ALTERNATIVE METHOD OF PREPARING COFFEE

FRENCH PRESS

To brew, fresh coffee grounds are fully immersed in hot water. The mesh filter encourages an even extraction that releases flavorful oils into the cup and creates rich, full-bodied cup.

CLOVER BREWED

The proprietary Clover® brewer utilizes a full-immersion brewing method paired with vacuum extraction, resulting in highly defined flavors. The Clover uses a finer mesh metal filter than a coffee press, resulting in a clean cup while maintaining the coffee's natural oils.

POUR OVER

To brew, hot water is gently poured over freshly ground coffee in a slow, circular motion. As water passes through a filter holding a bed of grounds, nuanced flavors are extracted from the coffee.

CHEMEX

This distinctive, hour-glass-shaped brewer prepares coffee that's unparalleled in its smooth, crisp clarity—thanks to a dense conical filter and the precise, skillful extraction performed by our baristas.

SYPHON

The siphon is a visually stunning brewing method that uses vacuum filtration to push extremely hot water through a bed of freshly ground coffee. Thanks to a paperfilter and a relatively quick extraction time, this technique creates an uncommonly nuanced and delicate cup that mesmerizes the senses.
